

INITIATIVE PROPOSAL FOR ROADS

A SYNOPSIS OF THE LAWS WHICH WOULD BE ENACTED

TO PROVIDE MORE MONEY

A Tax of 2 Cents a Gallon and Increase in the State Registration Fee on Motor Vehicles

A tax of two cents a gallon to be put on fuels used to propel vehicles on the public highway of this state. Refund on tax to be given consumers of these fuels for purposes other than the propulsion of vehicles upon their application to State Inspector of Oil. Refund to be taken from road fund upon appropriation for this purpose to be made by Legislature on State warrant issued by State Inspector of Oil, approved by the State Auditor, and paid by the State Treasurer.

Fuels imported into State and sold in unbroken original package except to gasoline filling stations—are exempt, because of Federal laws.

Being a new source of revenue, proceeds from motor vehicle fuel tax may be used for maintenance, without being subject to the long list of priority claims on other basic sources of road revenue.

An increase in the state registration fee on motor vehicles is also made, with the municipal license fees maximum kept as at present. While it amounts to a 50 per cent increase in the state registration fee, the expression is misleading, since that is only a portion of the present state and municipal fees on motor vehicles, and consequently is not one-half more than even state charges. The proposal means a net increase in present charges of all kinds, state and municipal, as follows annually:

For motor vehicles other than commercial motor vehicles:
Less than 12 horsepower $2.50; 12 horsepower and less than 24 horsepower $3.50; 24 horsepower and less than 36 horsepower $5.50; 36 horsepower and less than 48 horsepower $7.50; 48 horsepower and less than 60 horsepower $8.50; 60 horsepower and less than 72 horsepower $10.50; 72 horsepower and more $12.50; motor-cycles $2.00; motor tricycles $2.50.

For commercial motor vehicles the annual increase for vehicles of different capacity is as follows:

Less than 2 tons $3.50; 2 tons and less than 5 tons $6.00; 5 tons and less than 6 tons $9.00; 6 tons and less than 7 tons $10.00; 7 tons and less than 8 tons $12.00, and for every ton or major fraction thereof in excess of 8 tons, $5.00 per ton.

The additional motor vehicle registration fees are to be collected as at present, beginning at the close of January 31st, 1925, the Missouri "automobile year."

The motor vehicle fuel tax begins January 1, 1925 and is to be collected monthly. The first statement by distributors and dealers is to be made February 15, 1925, for the preceding month and payment of the tax must be made on or before the 25th. The State Inspector of Oil is to supervise records and statements of distributors and dealers, but payments are to be made directly to the State Treasurer.

Criminal penalties for fraudulent statements and other violations of the act are provided, together with civil penalties for failure to file statements or for delay in payment.

Construction funds derived from the new sources of revenue are to be distributed on the present basis of 51.2 per cent to secondary roads and 48.8 per cent to primary roads, until one or the other type is completed when all shall be concentrated on building the other type. But there is a provision for setting aside maintenance and such funds as are annually needed for reimbursement of the counties and civil subdivisions for roads built at their expense and accepted by the Highway Commission as a part of the State Highway System.

The third provision of the proposed act is permission to the State Fund Commissioners to issue, at the request of the State Highway Commission, the rest of the unsold authorization of $60,000,000 bonds, not to exceed $15,000,000 in a single year. This would mean the sale of $35,000,000 in 1925, 1926 and 1927, provided the authorization for "1924 and 1925" be used during 1924. Unless the proposed law is passed there will be no authorization for 1925.

Provision is made that the proceeds of the bonds shall be used solely for construction purposes. The setting

GOOD SINGING AT M. E. CONFERENCE

SAYS DR. JAMES IN LETTER TO DEMOCRAT-FORUM

GOOD STORIES HEARD

Boy Scouts Act as Pages at Conference—Several Fraternal Nights are Observed

Dr. C. C. C. James, who is now at Springfield, Mass., attending the General Conference of the First M. E. Church, wrote the following letter to the Democrat-Forum:

Dear Folks: One of the remarkable things is the way the men sing, it certainly is melodious, and the hymns of the church have never meant so much to me as they do hearing this crowd sing them.

There are many flashes of wit and irony. Some stories are told, and I feel like writing a few of them for your benefit. A colored preacher secured the floor on a question of privilege for the whole house. He had a telegram concerning the cyclone that had devastated part of the Atlantic area. He said: "They had a cyclone in the Atlantic area, presided over by Bishop Richardson." He meant to say, in the Atlantic area, where Bishop Richardson had presided, had a cyclone. It convulsed the General Conference. I do not think he realized what he had said.

Another in making a point told the following story: "A certain young preacher in the Kentucky hills, was the owner of a mule that would bray, and he had a volume of voice like an avalanche of cyclones, singing a symphony of devastation. And, when the preacher had preached quite a while, the mule would slip his bridle, push open the church door, and bray with all the volume of voice he possessed, much to the alarm and disgust of the congregation. Finally the preacher took the matter up with his official board, and asked for advice as to a method by which the mule could be cured of the braying. Two or three members suggested that if he would tie a stone to the tail of the mule it would cure him. The preacher after a moment's reflection, said: 'Let him that is without sin tie the first stone.' Sequel: The mule was not cured.

The General Conference has been delighted with the Clarin University Sextet. This is one of the universities conducted by the board of education for negroes. They have been singing such songs, "I Want to Be a Christian in My Heart," and "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," and many other negro spiritual melodies, and the always well received and encored. Yesterday they sang, "The Old Flag Has Never Touched the ground," and at the last chorus, they each suddenly found a flag and waved it. The immense audience immediately got to their feet, and applauded, and the parson shouted, "Glory hallelujah."

Yesterday seemed to be flower day. Bishops Waldorf and Henderson both had presented to them bouquets of beautiful roses, one for each year they were old. They both replied in a few well chosen words of thanks to the donors.

Chaplain W. W. Edal was the fraternal delegate from the United States Naval Chaplains Association. His father was a lay member of the General Conference, and Dr. Edwards of the Baltimore Conference secured the floor on a question of privilege for the whole house, asking that the father of the chaplain, have the honor of introducing his son. This was done and it was a beautiful sight to see father and son on the platform together.

The Boy Scouts of America act as pages of the conference, and carry notes to all parts of the house, and mail our letters and do other things of like character, and they slip around quietly; you would not know they were there until one of them touches you on the arm and hands you a note.

Last night was another fraternal

KELLER ADDRESSES 8TH GRADE GRADS

ST. CLAIR URGES PUPILS

To Continue Their Education—Tells of the Advantages That M. H. S. Has to Offer

"If a pupil makes up his mind to go to school he can go to school," said Dr. Fred Keller of the College this afternoon, speaking before the eighth grade rural graduates at the High School auditorium. "There are no ifs and ands about it. If a pupil is determined to go to school he can do it," he continued.

Dr. Keller said that the eighth grade graduates have a wonderful privilege now that their fathers and mothers did not have—they can just about do as they please. The pupils possess the tools to work with, they have an eighth grade education and should use it to further their education, to go to high school and to college. An eighth grade education is the keynote tool by which we work, was the thought of Dr. Keller in his address to the rural school graduates in Polk township.

Thirty-one eighth grade graduates of in and near Polk township received their diplomas this afternoon at the graduation exercises. The Maryville High School orchestra played several selections during the program. Miss Edwyna Forsyth, a Freshman gave a short talk, welcoming the new students. Stewart Tulloch, a senior, of Maryville High School, gave a short talk on the activities of high school life.

L. L. St. Clair, principal of the Maryville High School, gave a five-minute talk, urging the eighth grade graduates to come to Maryville High School next year and telling of the advantages which the Maryville High School affords. Leslie G. Somerville, county superintendent of schools, presented the diplomas to the graduates.

SENATE PASSES SOLIDER BONUS BILL OVER PRESIDENT'S VETO

FINAL VOTE ON MEASURE IS 59 TO 26.

SENATOR REED ABSENT

Spencer, Other Missouri Senator, Votes "Yes"—Provides Paid-up Insurance Policies for Veterans.

Washington, May 19.—The five-year fight to provide a bonus for America's four million World War veterans was finally won today.

Disregarding President Coolidge's opposition and harsh condemnation, the Senate, this afternoon, performed the last act in making adjusted compensation possible by passing the soldier bonus bill over the President's veto.

The bonus will not be in cash as was provided by the bonus bill which the late President Harding vetoed, but will be in the form of paid-up insurance policies which will have a cash loan value at the end of two years and which may be exchanged for cash at the end of twenty years.

The value of the bonus will be determined by the extent of service of each individual, at the rate of $1 per day for domestic service and $1.25 a day for overseas service. The average policies will range between $900 and $1,000.

The vote was 59 to 26—a margin of two votes.

Two sick men—Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin and Senator Green of Vermont—came to the capitol especially to vote. Green, who was shot recently, had to be carried into the chamber.

A cheer went up when the final result was announced and soon tremendous applause broke out.

The President was confined to the White House, weakened by a severe cold, while the Senate was voting.

The result, which marked the most decisive legislative defeat he has ever received, was flashed over a special wire and the news rushed to the President.

He shook his head and made a gesture with his hand, but would make no comment.

Senator Spencer, of Missouri voted in favor of the bonus. Senator James A. Reed of Missouri was absent and did not vote.

Washington, May 19.—President Coolidge set out in earnest this morning to swing the Senate tide in favor of sustaining his veto of the soldier bonus bill.

Bringing the weight of his personal influence to bear on "doubtful" Senators, the President had as his breakfast guests at the White House this morning seven Republican Senators whose commitments in favor of the bonus are said not to be irrevocable.

The President discussed the financial situation of the government at great length. He also reiterated his opposition to the bonus on moral grounds.

One of the Senators reminded him that as Governor of Massachusetts, he had signed and approved a state bonus bill in 1919. The President is said to have observed that this was "during the war period and that conditions have changed now."

After returning to the capitol from the White House, Senators Harrell, Republican of Oklahoma, and Dale of Vermont, both informed newspaper men that they would vote to override the President's veto.

MANY EXPLOSIONS IN OIL TANK FIRE

FLAMES CONSUMING 100,000 GALLONS OF OIL

TWO BELIEVED DEAD

Blaze in Craig Oil Refining Company's Plant Gets Beyond Control—Half-Million Dollar Loss

St. Paul, Minn., May 19.—Explosions had become so frequent in the fire which was raging at the Craig Oil Refining company's plant in West St. Paul shortly before noon today, and blazing barrels of oil were being thrown at such a tremendous distance that the fire department was forced to abandon all efforts to subdue the flames at the refining plant.

Because the flames were shooting hundreds of feet into the air, little headway was made in the search for the two men believed to have perished in the flames which were consuming 100,000 gallons of oil.

It was stated the loss would amount to a half million dollars and it might be a week before the fire could be extinguished.

W. E. (Ed) Thompson of this city today filed his formal announcement for county treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic voters at the Primary, August 5. Mr. Thompson is a member of an old Democratic family, who have lived in Nodaway County since soon after the Civil War.

For the past few years, he has been associated with the Barnard State Bank, at Barnard, as assistant cashier, but resigned his position there March 1st this year, moved to Maryville, and entered the insurance business. He is an active member of the Christian Church, and a member of both the Odd Fellows and Masonic lodges. He has never held an office of importance, except, that in the year 1905 he was enacted collector of Grant township. He served only one year of his term, however, owing to the fact that the manner in which township organization had been adopted in Nodaway county years before being declared unconstitutional.

Dr. Anthony Makes Available Camping Spot

Resident of Eustis, Fla., Offers to Girls Scout Use of His Splendid Oak Grove

Dr. F. R. Anthony, formerly of Maryville but now a resident of Eustis, Fla., has offered the use of his splendid oak grove adjoining his residence, to the Girls Scout for a camp. The following from the Daily Lake Region of Eustis had the following:

Much cordial interest is clustering around the Girl Scout movement in Lake county, with Eustis already well organized with three patrols and a fourth one started and under the direction of Miss Florence Sympton, captain, and a new troop organized in Umatilla, with Mrs. R. D. Rupert, captain, and a new troop organized in Tavares, with Dr. Marian Duncan, captain. These three splendid troops will go into camp June 4 for two sessions, the first one to continue until June 11, and the second one to the 18th, at Camp Anthony, so called because of the splendid co-operation and assistance given the Scouts by Dr. F. R. Anthony, of Eldorado Heights, who has offered the use of his splendid oak grove adjoining his residence and who has also offered the use of his splendid porches and will have water piped from his home to the camp, also electric wires extended to the camp, and has offered the use of his splendid radio for the entertainment of the Scouts.

Camp Anthony will be the first Girl Scout camp in Florida and will be open to all Girl Scouts in the state. It will be under the management of the Lake county captains, with Mrs. Rupert, camp secretary and treasurer Dr. Duncan, camp nurse, Miss Sympton, camp supervisor, and Miss Antoinette Mulikan, in charge of swimming and water sports.

This camp has been made possible by the splendid assistance given by the community committee, composed of Dr. Frances Wallace, Mrs. A. W. Scobey and Mrs. C. Daniels.

The greatest enthusiasm is being shown, not only by the captains, but by the Scouts, who are anticipating a wonderful time in true camp life in one of Lake county's beauty spots. The camp, as stated above, will be pitched in the large oak grove and will be conducted on a strictly business basis, with every detail of safety and sanitation carefully looked after. The captains and their troops feel much justifiable pride in the fact that this will be the first camp of its kind in the state, and no feature is being overlooked to make the sessions inspirational and filled with good things for the Scouts.

THE average individual, engrossed with his own affairs, may not appreciate that the number of automobiles increased 1200% between 1913 and 1923, while the average price of gasoline for the entire year 1923, increased but 12% over the year 1913.

While the production of crude oil during the period increased 300%, the output of gasoline increased 600%—a noteworthy achievement.

Without the processes originated and developed by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), this increased yield of gasoline could not have been obtained.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has led in the adoption of improved methods in all departments of refining and marketing petroleum.

This Company has fostered the adoption of every new method which could influence lower production and distribution costs. The benefits resulting from these improvements have been reflected to the consumer in better service and better products.

The motorist driving through the Middle West is able to buy gasoline made by this Company at convenient intervals on city streets and country roads.

He may encounter all sorts of food and lodging—all kinds of roads—but he will find Standard Oil Company (Indiana) gasoline everywhere and everywhere the same, and the price will be low.

To maintain such a satisfactory condition of affairs, the Management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has dealt wisely with labor—employed capital sensibly—and used invention intelligently.

In this way it has been able to assume a generous share of the great burden of meeting a 1200% increased demand for gasoline while charging only 12% more for its products in 1923 than in 1913.

The Neighbors Never Knew

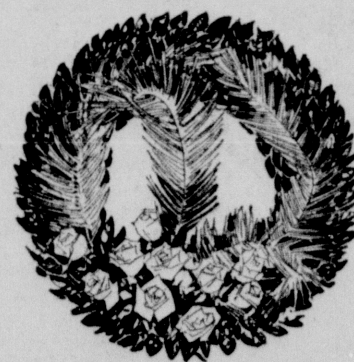

NOW that so many women are starching all their wash garments and household fabrics with the remarkable new starch discovery, INIT, it is difficult to tell which are cotton and which are linen.

All such fabrics not only look, but feel like linen. The reason is that INIT penetrates every thread of a garment and fastens all loosening bits of fibre back into place. It thus strengthens each thread and helps prolong the life of the material, while it gives the whole fabric a soft, pliable finish, just as you find in goods fresh from the store. And since INIT eliminates lint, your garments stay fresh and clean much longer.

The True Story of Woodrow Wilson

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

CHAPTER XXIV. The Famous Bryan "Postscript"—A Sensational Secret Hitherto Un- explained And The True Cause Of The Bryan Resignation.

Perhaps the most dramatic episode of that entire pre-war period in Mr. Wilson's first administration, occurred when the first note was sent to Germany denouncing the destruction of the Lusitania with more than 100 American lives aboard. Mr. Bryan had not given up hope that moral force could or would prevail. President Wilson read the note to the Cabinet. It was strong in tone stating that "the Imperial German Government will not expect the Government of the United States to omit any word of action" in obtaining a satisfaction of its demands. The Cabinet approved but in a conference between the Secretary of State, Mr. Bryan and the President, afterwards, there was renewed discussion of the effect of the note. Mr. Bryan thought the note might provoke war and could not bring himself to believe that he should sign a note which should cause war as he had committed himself to the pacifist position. Mr. Bryan reasoned with the President that the American people did not want war, that it was not in keeping with Christian doctrines for America to threaten war, and that almost all the world was engaged in conflict anyway and some nation should keep its head and remain aloof, especially a nation like America composed of many races and able to understand the racial complexities of the European conflict.

Mr. Bryan had been negotiating treaties with thirty nations whereby disputes would be resolved by a commission of inquiry during the sessions of which the disputants would agree for at least nine months not to engage in hostilities. All the important nations of the world with the exception of Germany, Japan and Turkey, had either accepted the principle of such treaties or had ratified pacts of that kind with the United States.

Mr. Bryan pleaded with the President to give Germany another chance to accept the principle of an investigation treaty. Mr. Bryan was convinced that the Germans did not want war with America and that they would look upon the suggestions as a long hole and a way out of an embarrassing situation. For even if they had intended to send instructions to torpedo the Lusitania he could not bring himself to believe that they would repeat such an act when once the effect on American opinion was known in Berlin.

President Wilson yielded to Mr. Bryan's persuasive arguments and permitted him to draft an instruction to Ambassador Gerard to be sent simultaneously with the Lusitania note advising the German government of the willingness of the United States to submit the question at issue to a commission of investigation on the principle of the Bryan treaties.

This instruction to Ambassador Gerard which has been variously called a "postscript" or a "Supplementary note" was never sent from Washington. It was under the circumstances as exciting as it was significant. It would have made a worldwide sensation at the time, but the swift passage of events since those dramatic days has to some extent robbed the incident of its true importance in the history of the neutrality period. The supplementary instruction to Ambassador Gerard reached the State Department from the White House and was about to be put into code and cabled to Berlin. No one knew about it except the President and the Secretary of State, Mr. Robert Lansing was Counselor of the State Department, and it was natural that he should learn of the supplementary instruction. He could not understand it and immediately communicated with private secretary Tumulty in an effort to learn its significance. Mr. Tumulty communicated with his close friend, the Secretary of War, Mr. Garrison, who said he knew nothing about it. He had not been discussed in the Cabinet meeting. Mr. Lansing made it clear that the supplementary instruction was a recession in his judgment from the strong words contained in the note itself. Word was passed to other members of the Cabinet and soon Mr. Wilson was besieged with a request to reconsider. Meanwhile, the note itself was held up at the State Department until the matter could be canvassed further. Private Secretary Tumulty made an eloquent speech to his chief pointing out the danger of such a step, that possible misunderstandings might grow from it, that Germany might get the impression, the United States would not fight for her rights and that it was essential German to be told she must respect American rights without equivocation.

There were no direct threats of resignation made to Mr. Wilson by members of his Cabinet but the President saw fire in the eyes of his advisers. He finally ordered the supplementary instruction suppressed and the note went forth to Berlin with the strong words undiluted by any suggestion of weakness.

Later on in the campaign of 1916 the secret leaked out in garbled fashion and was never clearly explained. Senator Lodge of Massachusetts made a speech in Heston reading from a letter sent him by Professor Charles H. Bailey of the Tufts Medical School, repeating a conversation which Mr. Bailey had with Henry C. Breckinridge who was Assistant Secretary of War under Secretary Garrison at the time of the so-called "Postscript" episode. The Massachusetts Senator was endeavoring to prove that Mr. Wilson's strong words were tempered with hints that they were not meant seriously and that Germany was destroying American rights because she knew or believed the United States would not under the Wilson administration defend those rights.

President Wilson issued from his headquarters at Long Branch, New Jersey, a statement in reply to an inquiring telegram from Walter Lippman then one of the editors of the "New Republic." Mr. Wilson said: "In reply to the telegram, let me say, that the statement made by Senator Lodge is untrue. No postscript or amendment of the Lusitania note was ever written or contemplated by me, except such changes that I myself inserted which strengthened and emphasized the protest. It was suggested after the note was ready for transmission that an intimation be conveyed to the German government that a proposal for arbitration would be acceptable, and one member of the Cabinet spoke to me about it, but it was never discussed in cabinet meeting and no threat of any resignation was ever made, for the very good reason that I rejected the suggestion after giving it such consideration as I thought every proposal deserved which touched so grave a matter. It was inconsistent with the purpose of the note. The public is in possession of every thing that was said to the German government."

The foregoing statement is one of the most remarkable pieces of adroit fencing which came from Mr. Wilson's pen. He had a theory that a diplomatic denial was absolutely essential in many cases because the end justified the means. In this case every line of Mr. Wilson's statement is true—literally taken.

In the first place Mr. Wilson was right in saying that there was no postscript to the Lusitania note itself nor was there any amendment of the note. Mr. Wilson was right when he said that he never wrote or contemplated writing any postscript or amendment. Mr. Bryan composed the supplementary instruction for Ambassador Gerard and it was not a part of the original note but a separate communication. Mr. Wilson also revealed that "it was suggested after the note was ready for transmission that an intimation be conveyed to the German government that a proposal for arbitration will be acceptable." He uses the word "intimation" to cover the instruction which was to be sent to Ambassador Gerard. It was true that only one member of the Cabinet spoke to Mr. Wilson about it—that was Mr. Bryan. When the President stated that the suggestion was "inconsistent with the purpose of the note" he reveals the conclusion he reached at the time. To his mind the postscript, amendment or supplementary instruction did not exist officially because it was never sent to Germany, and he spoke the real truth when he said "the public is in possession of everything that was said to the German government."

Senator Lodge, did, however, have in his possession during that campaign the elements of one of the biggest secrets of the administration and if he had worded his accusation in a slightly different fashion it would have been impossible to deny the existence of a supplementary instruction. On the other hand, since the instruction was not sent to the German government Mr. Wilson regarded the affair as of no importance externally. It was of vital importance internally, however, because it was the basic cause a month later of the resignation of Mr. Bryan as Secretary of State.

What interested Mr. Bryan was not the strong language used in the diplomatic notes to Germany but the actual intention of the American government. When he discovered that Mr. Wilson was prepared to develop the correspondence with Germany to a climax which might result in war, Mr. Bryan declined to be a party to it. The general public wondered when Mr. Bryan resigned why he declined to sign the second Lusitania note to Germany which in tone was certainly not a commitment as its predecessor. The truth is Secretary Bryan learned of President Wilson's readiness to go to war if Germany persisted in her violations of American rights. Mr. Bryan was sincerely convinced that war would be unpopular and he left the Cabinet with the hope of persuading Mr. Wilson through public opinion that a war policy was inadvisable. Some of the best speeches made in defense of Mr. Wilson's administration were those of William Jennings Bryan during the campaign of 1916. He traveled from one end of the west to the other. His plea was for peace. It was he who emphasized that Woodrow Wilson had kept us out of war. In his heart was a hope that the speeches of the campaign would constitute a commitment and that Mr. Wilson would listen no longer to the clamor for war. When war did come William Jennings Bryan was a loyal supporter of the government. His record against a policy of involvement that would lead to war is clear. He was the theory of moral force. So long as Mr. Wilson agreed with him the union of these two Democratic leaders was indissoluble, the moment physical force was contemplated by Mr. Wilson, the two men separated. It was a conflict of principle, not of personality, and the parting of the two statesmen was truly an affecting one. Each stood by his convictions.

aside from road revenue receipts and amounts due on payment of principal is made mandatory. The title includes the completion of the construction of the 7640 miles of hard-surfaced roads, comprising the state highway system, and the maintenance thereof as the purpose of the act.

The Commission has, in an official statement, said that the rates proposed to be established, will permit completion of construction, pay off all the bonds voted in 1920, and maintain the roads.

In this respect the proposal is different from the mere speeding up suggestion for an extra session last fall. This seeks not only to speed up but to provide for completion of construction of the state highway system, without necessity for any further legislation except the biennial appropriations.

Free Ride to White Sister If It Rains

Empire Theater Announces That Taxi
Fare Will Be Paid for If It Is Raining.

On Wednesday and Thursday of this week, Lillian Gish in the "White Sister," will appear at the Empire Theater. This is by far the biggest picture that has appeared in Maryville for over a year.

The management of the Empire Theater announced this morning that they were very anxious for every patron in Maryville to see the film. If it should rain during the hours of the picture show Mr. Kuehs announces that if anyone who wishes to attend the show they should call the Empire Theater and a taxi will be sent free to these people to bring them to the theater.

The "White Sister" was filmed entirely in Italy and northern Africa. Rome, Naples, Sorrento, Tivoli and even Mt. Vesuvius were some of the locations used and the results, according to some of the critics of the larger cities make it one of the most beautiful productions yet made.

Verdict in Libel Suit Is Reversed

Federal Court of Appeals Rules Against Fannie Hope of Maryville
(St. Joseph Gazette)

The verdict rendered in the district court at St. Joseph in March, 1923 in favor of Fannie Hope of Maryville in her $75,000 libel suit against Elmer E. Faris of Fairbury, Neb., her former husband, has been reversed by the United States circuit court of appeals at St. Louis in a decision just handed down. Word was received by J. A. Duncan, clerk of federal court here.

The opinion holds that under the laws of the state of Nebraska, the parties were still man and wife at the time of the writing of the libelous letters sued on, and that under both the state of Missouri and federal laws, neither a husband nor a wife can maintain any suit against the other for personal tort committed during the existence of marriage relations.

Allen May of St. Joseph now assistant attorney general of Missouri, who represented Faris, raised this point at the trial here. Judge A. L. Reeves ruled against his contention. The suit was brought on three counts of $25,000 each. Judge Reeves sustained a demurrer to two counts and submitted the other count to the jury which returned a verdict of $100 actual and $900 punitive damages. The appeal was taken from this judgment and resulted in the judgment being reversed with costs.

ACTION!

A covered wagon accidentally rolling backwards off over the mountain road into the precipice, with the occupants jumping for their lives!

Indians in their war paint riding fearlessly down the steep side of a mountain, then racing up a narrow canyon with one of the horses rolling over backwards, almost rolling over the body of his Indian rider!

A band of Indians attacking "The Lone Wagon," with its few immigrants fighting with their backs to the wall, ready to touch off the powder kegs that would blow them all to kingdom come should the Indians break through!

The wagon train guide outguesses the Indians and enables the train to escape by a back canyon route, evading the attacking Indians, who ride down on the camp only to find it a phantom camp of dummy covered wagons with the dying embers of a campfire surrounded by scarecrows!

A thrilling rescue of the girl and her brother by the guide, who slides down a rope to the bottom of the canyon and saves the girl's life; then a ride for life to safety!

The foregoing are only a small part of the many countless bits of fast action that go into the making of the Thrill-speedrama titled "The Lone Wagon," a Sanford production, featuring Matty Mattison, Vivian Rich, Earl Metcalf, Gene Crosby and Lafayette McKee, which comes to the Electric Theatre for a run of one day Monday, May 19.

GOING AWAY.

Sometimes I can't understand why folks who go away for long periods let their homes stay all closed up like mausoleums.

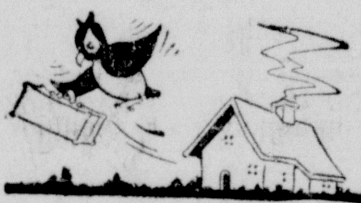

In every one of these mausoleums there are a lot of unnecessarily dead losses.

Any man can secure somebody who wants to rent his home for a few weeks or months, if he will only use a Democrat-Forum Want Ad.

From the applicants who answer his ad, he can select the family who will take the best care of his home.

We knew a college professor who, by use of the little ad, rented his home at a good income for three months each summer. It was well cared for in his absence, and his family had more money for their vacation.

It's easy money, too.

STOP THAT AD OF MINE PLEASE.

Why; that we do not have to ask; for we know that it is just another case of a D F Want Ad USER getting a result from the first day's insertion. This happens every day!

To try it, it is to be convinced; just call Hanamo 42, or Farmers 114.

SUGGESTIONS TO CHICKEN RAISERS

Dr. Sivert Eriksen of the Missouri State Poultry Experiment Station gives treatments for Worms and Lice.

The common round worm is frequently found in chicks. The worms develop in the intestines from eggs picked up by the fowls about the poultry yard. These eggs, which are too small to be seen without a microscope, were laid by mature worms and passed out with the droppings of the infested birds.

Symptoms: In young birds heavy infestation of worms cause stunted and undeveloped individuals and may cause death. In older birds worms are a constant devitalizer and prevent maximum production.

Treatment: The so-called "tobacco treatment" has been found very effective for removing round worms and is highly recommended. For each 500 chicks, six to ten weeks of age, use one pound of tobacco stems or a fine cut smoking tobacco. Soak the tobacco in enough water to cover it, for two hours. Mix all of this with enough mash for the birds to clean up quickly. Have the birds starved for about 12 hours previously so that they will eat the tobacco mash readily. After six hours give one pound of Epsom Salts dissolved in water and mixed with mash for 500 chicks, six to ten weeks old. This treatment should be repeated in a week.

Birds undergoing treatment should be penned up so that the worm and worm egg laden droppings may be cleaned up and burned and not allowed to become infective material later on.

Rid the Flock of Lice

During the warm weather lice and mites breed rapidly. The houses and fixtures should be kept clean and a spray made of a solution of one pint of some good stock dip to three gallons of kerosene is effective to keep down the mites. Also, the roost poles should be painted with a full strength solution of this same material, crude oil or creosote.

Lice causes much damage to the growing chicks. To eradicate lice on birds, one has the choice of three different lice killers, any one of which may be used with good results.

Sodium fluoride can be procured from most drug stores, should be used as a powder or dip on hens or chicks. The pinch method consists of holding the bird with the left hand by the wings while with the right hand a small pinch of the fluoride is taken from a convenient dish and placed in the region of the vent, one beneath each thigh, one on the under side of each wing, one on the wattle at the base of the neck and one on the hip. This can be done very rapidly when the routine is learned by experience with a very few birds. The powder should be distributed through the feathers as much as possible. A table on which the bird can be placed while dusting is very convenient.

To use a dip, dissolve one pound of the powder (sodium fluoride) in ten gallons of luke warm water. Dip in the morning of a warm, sunny day. Repeated trials indicate that nicotine sulphate is a very effective agent in destroying and eradicating lice on poultry. It may be used in the form of a powder or as an ointment with equal effect. The powder is made by mixing 2 1/2 drams of the liquid nicotine sulphate with one pound powder.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

ed chalk, or completely air slacked lime. The powder must be thoroughly mixed and sifted. Then it can be dusted into the feathers either by means of a sifter top container or by the pinch method.

In the form of an ointment 1 part nicotine sulphate, 50 parts vaseline, and 49 parts of tallow and lard in proportion to be best handled at the prevailing temperature, may be applied to the parts of the body frequently by lice. The chief advantage of nicotine sulphate over other lice killer is its moderate cost. Tobacco dust is of no value as a lice killer.

Blue ointment is used effectively as a treatment to eradicate body lice. Commercial blue ointment (43 and one third per cent) should be used and should be diluted with an equal amount of vaseline by weight. Venetian red is sometimes added to thicken and color the ointment. Mix thoroughly.

Take a little of this ointment on the end of the finger, part the feathers and rub on the skin, not the feathers, below the vent, and on the thighs and breast. Do this two or three times a year, and you will not be bothered with lice on your fowls.

WISE CRACKS

Collecting a crowd is much easier than collecting from a cloud, announces the Atchison, Kas. Globe.

In spite of all the opposition expressed to child labor, many of the boys find that their unprogressive parents call on them to rake up the back yard and mow the lawn, says the McPherson, Kas. Republican.

Derby Winner Traces to Maryville Stock

His Dam Was a Daughter of Bonnie Joe, a Horse That Was Bred by "Uncle Jim" Gray of Maryville

The Derby winner, Black Gold, at the racing meet held at Louisville, Ky., Saturday, like many other good race horses, traces right back to Maryville stock. His dam was a daughter of Bonnie Joe, a horse that was bred by "Uncle Jim" Gray of Maryville and was sired by Faustus. Gray was trainer at the Prather stables which were located on the Prather farm, located now where the Maryville Country Club is. Gray and the late James B. Prather were partners in the racing stables.

After the death of James B. Prather Gray took a number of horses to his new location in Oklahoma.

GOOD SINGING AT
M. E. CONFERENCE

night, when the messengers from the Canadian Methodist Church, the Irish Methodist Church, and the British Wesleyan Church. They were all speakers who knew how to deliver a good message. They were as different in type as day is night. We had two and one-half hours of oratory.

Let me give you some trenchant statements made at the General Conference, "The work of the church is a vision, splendid as an empire without borders."

"Ignorance is bliss; it is, but in a fool's paradise."

"The social gospel is a necessity in these days of problems."

The Irish fraternal delegate when he commenced to speak, asked how many there were of Irish extraction, and one hundred and fifty people stood. He then said: "You see how Ireland is taking the world." "Ireland is passing from an age of materialism to an age of spirituality."

"The English have their Bible and their beer—mostly beer."

"The Scotch are noted for keeping the Sabbath—and everything else they lay their hands on."

"The Welsh were on their knees praying on Sunday, and praying on every day else during the week."

"The Irish do not know what they want and will not be happy until they get it."

He related the story told by a priest, who threatened a man who was an habitual drunkard that if he didn't quit, he would turn him into a rat. The man went home much terrified and said to his wife: "Mary, if you see me getting smaller and smaller each day, please keep the cat shut up."

He also related the incident of the English troops going out on the Dublin Bay to their homeland, and an old Irish woman who had witnessed the departure, turned to the person nearest to her and said: "Thank God, they are gone; we can now fight among ourselves in peace."

He was followed by a noted English Divine, the Rev. Samuel Chadwick, principal of Cliffs College, England. He said he "would like to see the peace question taken out of politics and work on the broad and splendid plan of international good will and brotherhood."

"England is amazed at the result of your Volstead act, and are anxiously waiting for England to follow in your footsteps."

The evening was well spent and all had something to think about. Good luck to all of you.
